2011 Year Hong Kong Advanced Level Examination
Script Viewing Service Trial

The HKEAA is planning to introduce a script viewing service to candidates in the near future. Candidates will be able to view scanned images of their marked answer scripts, multiple-choice answer sheets, oral score sheets and marking schemes at the HKEAA assessment centres. As part of the development process, a trial of this service will be conducted in early July 2011 after the release of the 2011 HKAL examination results in the two AS level language subjects: Use of English and Chinese Language & Culture.

You are cordially invited to apply to take part in this trial by completing an online application form between 25 May and 6 June 2011. A random sample of about 4,000 applicants will be selected, and both successful and unsuccessful applicants will be informed by email on or before 21 June 2011. Details regarding the script viewing service and the application procedure for the trial will be available on the HKEAA website: www.hkeaa.edu.hk from 25 May 2011.
